

Polonca Lovšin: What does the forest say?

21 October–19 November 2022

artKIT

You are cordially invited to the opening of the exhibition What does the forest say? by artist Polonca Lovšin, which will take place on Friday, 21 October 2022, at 7 p.m. at the artKIT gallery.

The exhibition offers the viewer a new view of the world after the end of humans' reign, with a special focus on inter-species equality. Polonca Lovšin, architect and artist, presents a new video of the same name, which was inspired by the pop hit The Fox (What Does the Fox Say?) by the Norwegian duo Ylvis. The new adaptation focuses on the forest, which is becoming an increasingly important ecosystem in the face of climate change and a classroom for humans to learn about interspecies coexistence in the everyday processes of dying, rotting, germinating, and growing. In this way, the forest defies the extinction of all living things, becoming a place of hope for the future of us all.

Prior to the opening of the exhibition, at 4 p.m. we invite you to a two-part workshop where we will create masks of different forest creatures and then learn a simple choreography. We will hold a final performance with the workshop participants to accompany the opening of the exhibition. More at www.kibla.org.

The exhibition is supported by KUD Obrat and Kunstraum Memphis, Linz.
